Forecast For Northern Ireland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 1600 on Wednesday 27 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Wet night. Brighter Thursday afternoon. Rain by evening.

This Evening and Tonight:
Periods of occasionally heavy rain spreading across Fermanagh, Tyrone and Armagh early evening, before reaching all parts late evening, and continuing overnight, leading to some flooding. Easterly winds fresh to strong for a time. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Thursday:
Rain turning lighter in the morning and a brighter spell with some sunny intervals in afternoon before rain returns by evening. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Friday cloudy with light rain but drier later, some sunshine in north. Saturday mainly dry, bright with light winds. Sunday cloudy with rain, some high ground snow.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.